National FFA BOAC Program Winners

Appomattox Senior FFA Chapter Officers and Advisor last week received National recognition for achievement in community development activities at the National FFA Convention in Kansas City, Missouri. (left to right) Dr. William Nagle, Acting Executive Secretary for Rural Development Coordinating Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture greeted Dale Garret, Chapter President and J. L. Burcher, FFA Advisor. The chapter was one of 151 Building Our American Community (BOAC) Winners recognized at the special awards banquet. The banquet was hosted by the National FFA Foundation, Inc. and the BOAC Special Project Sponsor, The Lilly Endowment, Inc., of Indianapolis, Indiana.

The BOAC program recognizes FFA Chapters for their Community Development activities. BOAC awards are presented at the area, state and national level for a wide variety of Community Development activities including preserving community history, organizing local farmer markets, building community fire halls and many other improvement projects. BOAC provides leadership development opportunities to members by giving them a chance to work with community leaders and organizations.

This important FFA program has been endorsed by National Vo-Ag Teachers Association, the U. S. Department of Agriculture and Farmers Home Administration - USDA.

Thanksgiving Turkey?

Hi! My name is toobiested. I live on Mr. Beans' Turkey Farm. There are Three Pens on the farm. Pen #1 is where the male turkeys live. Pen #2 is where the female turkeys live. Last, but not least, Pen #3 is where the young turkeys live. I live in Pen #2.

The feeding place is in the back of each pen. Every time Mr. Beans says not to hog the food, but we always do.

Oh No!!! it's two days before Thanksgiving. That's the time when Mr. Bean chooses his turkey, a nice fat turkey, and I'm scared! I'll just have to think about it.

Ah! I've got it! I'll hide.

(Next day) Whew! What a time! I think I made it. Oh! A gunshot! Lucky me. I'm not the Thanksgiving Turkey! Hey gang the feeds on me.

Vepco Opens New East Richmond Office Solar System To Be Tested

Virginia Electric and Power Company has opened a new district office in the East Richmond area, at 4226 Charles City Road in Henrico County.

The new district will serve approximately 46,000 customers in Richmond's east side and portions of Henrico, Hanover, New Kent, Charles City and King William Counties. These customers were formerly served by Vepco's Richmond District Office on West Broad Street.

James R. Frazier, Jr., East Richmond District Manager said, "We look forward to providing better service with greater convenience at this central location."

Approximately 162 employees will work in the new district office.

The office building makes extensive use of an innovative heating and cooling system, including solar energy. The energy management system incorporates heat pumps, energy storage devices, and solar collectors.

"The system reduces peak electric demand," said Frazier, "it stores energy during off-peak hours (weekends and between 9 P.M. and 9 A.M. during the week) to be used during daytime periods of higher demand."

The building's operation will be monitored and recorded. The resulting data will then be compared with similar structures in Chesapeake and Springfield which use conventional heating and cooling systems. This project, part of Vepco's research, development and demonstration program, is designed to reduce electrical demand and energy consumption. This will reduce energy costs by about $10,000 each year.

The building is heated and cooled by heat pumps, with help from 740 square feet of solar collectors on the roof. Energy is stored in the form of hot or cold water in three 10,000 gallon tanks at night. During the day, the energy is used to heat or cool the building, reducing peak demand. The system's display panel is located in the lobby, where customers can view its operation.

The major electrical components of the system will operate only during off-peak hours. The solar collectors, however, will operate during daytime hours independent of the electrical system.

"This office was built with energy savings in mind," said Frazier.

The office was built to Hudgins Construction Company, Inc. of Newport News. Hankins and Anderson, Inc. of Richmond designed the heating and cooling system based on a concept developed by Vepco's Architectural and Marketing Services Department.

CVPDC Aids Local Government

The Central Virginia Planning District Commission, which includes the Counties of Amherst, Appomattox, Bedford and Campbell and the cities of Lynchburg and Bedford was created on October 23, 1969 at a regular meeting of the Central Virginia Regional Planning Commission but held it's first official meeting on November 20, 1969 at 2901 Langhorne Road in Lynchburg. The Central Virginia Regional Planning Commission, begun in September of 1968, had worked with local units of government officially since June of 1969, discussing the commissions's evolution to the Central Virginia Planning District Commission.

In July, 1969, the planning district boundaries were drawn by the Virginia Divison of State Planning and Community Affairs based on geographic, transportation, social and economic interests shared by local governments, following county and city boundaries.

The decision-making body of the planning district is the commission. The commission is made up of one elected official and one non-elected citizen. Dr. S. R. Lawson is the elected official for Appomattox County and Mr. E. W. Carson is the non-elected citizen representing the County of Appomattox. Bill Britton represents Appomattox on several CVPDC committee or task forces.

Based on the needs of member governments, the commission sets goals and objectives and then conducts studies and developes plans for the social, economic, environmental and physical development of local jurisdictions.

Planning district commissions are able to assist local governments by developing plans and studies and offering advice on federal and state programs....work which many local governments could not afford to do themselves.

It is up to the governing body of each locality to adopt and carry out the plans developed by a planning district commission. The commission itself does not have the power to implement the completed plans and studies.

Gifted and Talented Students Entertained By Traveloque Series

Recently a group of students from Appomattox Middle School and Appomattox County High School was among the captivated audience of Mr. Ed Lark as he narrated his film on Taiwan. Mr. Lark, who had been invited to Lynchburg by the Kiwanis Club, had traveled extensively on the Island, formerly known as Formosa, the "beautiful island," which is the only place in the Free World where one can experience the full flavor of Chinese life at its best. The extraordinary photography showed the old and the new: visits to ancient temples like the Taoist Chihnan Temple and also to the Shihmen Dam that provides hydroelectric power for the country. Mr. Lark pointed out a land rich in heritage, warm in hospitality still steeped in tradition, yet embracing the modern technology of the modern age.

Again this month a second Travelogue Film is scheduled for Wednesday, November 21, at 8:00 p.m. at E. C. Glass Auditorium, when the tour guide will present a film and discussion on the "Inside Passage and Aleutian Islands." Tickets and transportation are being provided by the Gifted and Talented Program, and at the high school tickets will be available to any student on a first come basis. For further information contact Mrs. Linda Archer, Guidance Counselor, Appomattox County High School.

TO: THE VOTERS OF THE 18TH SENATORIAL DISTRICT

While I had no opposition in the General Election on Tuesday, November 6, I nevertheless want to thank you for your fine vote of confidence in returning me to my third term in the Senate of Virginia. It is gratifying to have the support of so many fine Virginians.

I shall continue to serve you to the very best of my ability and hope you will feel free to call on me for assistance on matters before the Legislature in which you have an interest, as well as any other matters pertaining to our State government in which I may be of help.

Sincerely,
Howard P. Anderson

"Stitch and Chatter" Christmas Bazaar Coming Soon

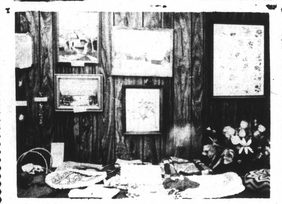
The "Stitch and Chatter" group of the Appomattox Court House Presbyterian Church are in the final stages of preparation for their annual Christmas bazaar.

Offering for sale handmade gifts of all kinds, the bazaar will be held on Friday, November 30, from 11 a.m. until 8 p.m. and again on Saturday, November 1st from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m.

"Stitch and Chatter" is composed of women who share like interests. Meeting once a week, the first thing on the agenda is an hour of concentrated Bible Study. Following this they share a covered dish luncheon; finally they have a period of fellowship and handwork . . . 'stitching and chatting.'

In addition to the handmade gifts offered for sale, the Stitch and Chatter group is planning a White Elephant Sale as part of their bazaar.

What better way to get a lot of your Christmas Shopping out of the way than by paying a visit to the Christmas Bazaar; you'd better come early, those "Stitch and Chatter" gifts don't last long!



It's Beginning To Look A Lot Like Christmas

One step across the threshold of a doorway marked "Calico Christmas" at the Extension Office on Court Street and right away you got the feeling . . . "It's beginning to look a lot like Christmas." At Open House last week, homemakers of Appomattox County Extension Clubs proudly displayed gifts, decorations for the home, and Christmas tree . . . all carefully made by hand. Notice in the picture above the wide variety of articles displayed. It is beginning to look a lot likeChristmas!
